If you're not sure to sign in to the DisneyLife site or app, see sign in? If you can't sign in, here are a few things to learn: Make sure you're using the same email address you used to subscribe, and select the option that matches the one you used when you first signed up for DisneyLife. For example: If you subscribed using your email address, choose Sign in with your email address and use the same email and password. If you've subscribed with Facebook or Google and haven't switched to your email address yet, first follow the steps to change your logins here: Facebook/Google sign-in changes. If you've subscribed through the Apple App Store using your iTunes account: Remember: Your password is case sensitive! You can try to sign in using a device that is not compatible. To find out if you're using a compatible device to sign in, see Our Watch Modes. If you have a question about Disney+, you can find the Disney+ Help Center with useful frequently asked questions, as well as Your Disney+ team contact details by clicking here. Error 83 appears to be one of the biggest issues affecting subscribers. If you see this message, it means that there is a device compatibility issue. Essentially, Disney Plus doesn't cooperate with the device on which you are trying to view the content. This might seem frustrating, because if your device is incompatible with Disney Plus, were you able to download the app in the first place? Well, there are a number of other factors that could be the impact of device compatibility. The first thing you have to try, and we don't like to say it, is to turn off the device and turn it on again. As tired as this tip is, you don't know how often a simple power cycle is a response to all the tech problems. Then, check that the device is actually compatible with the service, just to be sure. If you've tried these steps, the next step is to verify that the firmware is up to date on the device you're using. This shouldn't affect most new devices, but if you happen to be running a particularly old iOS or Android operating system, for example, Disney Plus may reject the device. So make sure you update iOS or Android to the latest version before you try to run the app again. If you try to view on another device, such as a smart TV, PlayStation 4 or Xbox One, you'll find software update guides on the manufacturer's websites. That said, you will almost always find software updates buried in a system, about, or general menu in almost any device connected to the internet. If there is a firmware update ready to install / you'll probably see a small notification indicator (such as when you receive a new message or email). If all else fails and you're desperate to stream Disney Plus, try connecting to another device. As frustrating as it sounds, a device compatibility issue would be Error 83, it means the app has a problem with the specific device you're using, so switch to a computer, games games or smart TV should produce a different result. There are a few words you don't want your kids to hear. A group of words happens to be, Disney Plus doesn't work?. Yes, the recently released streaming service had its share of hiccups. So what do you do if you find Disney Plus doesn't work for you or your kids? Read more: What's new on Disney Plus The good news is that there are a number of things you can do at home that could solve the Disney Plus connection problems that you have. Here are some tips on fixing Disney Plus. If you haven't signed up for work yet, you can do so at the link below. Error code 83: Fix the problemYou may encounter a special error code 83 when Disney Plus is not working. It is so common that I wrote an entire article dedicated just to this issue. Make sure you typed the correct passwordTiming the wrong password is a common problem for people who think Disney Plus isn't working for them. If you forgot your password, you can reset it by following steps:Go to the website DisneyPlus.com and click the Sign in link. Enter the email address associated with your Disney Plus account, and then click Continue. You should see a Forgotten Password option under the Password field. Click it. In a few moments, you should receive an email with a six-digit code. Type that code on the Disney Plus website. Then, you should be able to enter a new password for your account. If, for some reason, you didn't receive that six-digit code in your email, check the spam folder or click the Resend selection on the site to send a new six-digit code. You can also contact Disney Plus support directly through the Help Center's website, either by phone or via live text chat. Keep in mind that your Disney Plus account is also the same one that you and other family members would use to sign in to other services owned by the company. This includes the ESPN Plus and ABC apps. If someone using the account changes the password for one of the other services, it will also be changed to sign in to Disney Plus. Fix Disney Plus streaming problems at home! you find that Disney Plus isn't working in your home, a number of actions could fix these problems: If you're having problems streaming at home, you might want to restart your TV, set-top box, game console, or mobile phone to see if it solves the problem. Turn off the home router for about 60 seconds, and then restart it to see if it fixes the download stream. You can turn off the modem for up to 30 seconds, and then restart it. You can try reinstalling Disney Plus apps on your devices. If you're still running problems, your router may be in a weak location and its signals are blocked. Try to move it to a more open area of the house. You can also try connecting your router directly to your smart TV, set-top box, or game console. You will need at least 5Mbps download speed to access the In addition, and 25Mbps for 4K streaming. Some older TVs and monitors may have problems streaming video from the service to higher definitions. For Disney Plus, the TV or monitor must support HDCP 2.2 for viewing 4K and HDR video content. If you find that Disney Plus isn't working properly on Android smartphones and tablets and/or iOS, or if there's a problem running video in your PC's web browser, there are a few things you can do. If you're on a cellular network, you might find that connection speed isn't enough for a good streaming experience. In this case, connecting to a Wi-Fi signal could help. You can also turn Airplane mode on and off again, which sometimes fixes connection problems. You can also turn your mobile device off and on again. You can also fix some problems by restarting apps, and uninstalling and reinstalling them can also help you. You can also try deleting application caches to fix problems. If you own an Android device, go to Settings > Apps > Storage > Disney+, and then select the Clear Cache and Clear Data options. If you're using a PC web browser, deleting the cache from your browser could help with any video problems. If you're streaming the service from your mobile device to your smart TV through Chromecast and you're having problems, try this. Go to the home screen, and then go to Settings > Apps > > Embedded Chromecast, and then select the Clear Cache and Clear Data options. Finally, restart the TV by holding down the green hold button on the remote control for more than five seconds. The screen should turn black and you can release the button at that point. Finally, make sure you have the latest version of the app for Disney Plus installed on your mobile device. You may be tapping an error that has been fixed in the latest version of the app. Fix cache problems with set-top boxes and game consoles! Disney Plus is having problems on the Amazon Fire TV Stick, set-top box, or smart TV, you can access Settings > Apps > Manage Installed Apps > Disney+. Then, you can select the Clear Cache and Clear Data options. If you own a Sony PlayStation 4, you can get rid of the Disney Plus cache by going to the Settings menu. Then enter Storage > System Storage > Saved Data. Then highlight the Disney+ option, select Options, and finally select Delete. For Microsoft's Xbox One console, deleting the Disney Plus cache data starts by accessing the console's startup menu. Then go to My Games and Apps>Select apps and highlight the Disney+ tiles. Then press the Menu button on the Xbox. Click More Options, and then select Manage Application, and finally delete the saved data. While this is rare, it's possible Disney Plus isn't working because they're actually just down. You may want to go to the DownDetector site to see if anyone else is having problems. A problem with your home Internet service may also cause the problem, in which case you will need to contact your service provider. It is possible to a spike in Disney Plus error codes in the coming days and weeks. That's because of season two in Mandalorian. If last year is any indication, there are likely people unable to log in and annoying persistent messages, it would be error code 76 culture while trying and stream some of your favorite shows on Disney Plus.Well, we're here to help. Below, I counted every major problem and error code that I found so far in the first month of Disney Plus. For the most part, we have a solution or a solution for each as well. Everything from Disney Plus on Xbox One issues to the payment method being declined, to problems with using VPNs are all covered here. What to do if you can't connect to Disney PlusFirst thing: contact Disney Plus Help on Twitter. You can also visit the Help Center and search for the error code or email them using DisneyPlusHelp@Disney.com address. If all others fails, contact their (US-only) number of customer service: 888-905-7888.While we try our best to provide some bug fixes down below based on anecdotal evidence, there is a 100% success rate. Direct contact with Disney will almost always be the best way to go. With thousands and thousands of people trying to connect to Disney Plus at once, chances are there are bound to be a few errors. If you receive a message unable to sign in followed by the app that tells you There seems to be a problem connecting to the Disney+ service, then the servers clearly have some teething problems. This can happen around peak times, especially with the launch of a new series. You should sign out, close the app, and then sign in again. Also check your internet/router settings if this is the problem and even try different devices, including PS4 and mobile, if possible. Finally, if I were you as a region that doesn't currently have Disney Plus and you're using a VPN - this could be the cause of the flood of error messages. That's a big no-no. If all else fails, be sure to contact your Disney Plus Help account on Twitter as they may be able to let you know if there are any problems or planned maintenance in the store. The Disney Plus Help Center, as mentioned above, is another great resource. Whether you're renewing or starting a Disney Plus submarine, there are times when you try to pay and receive the error message instead: We couldn't complete your payment request using the credit card information you provided. Please re-enter your credit card information or use another form of payment. Disney suggests checking the postal/postal code is correct: code on the back of the card is inserted correctly, the billing address corresponds to the home address (if applicable) and if the expiry date is the same as the date on the card. The Disney Plus 4 Error CodeThis is a case of checking payment details, especially if a new month of payment is due to start. You have used either a card that has expired or one that does not come from a region that currently offers Plus error code 9This is simple: you have been disconnected and need to sign in again. If it persists, change your password. Disney Plus error code 11Ops! If you receive the Disney Plus 11 error code, then it is a simple case where you are watching Disney Plus in a region that does not currently have access to it. Naughty. Even if you are a U.S. citizen who bought it in America, if you go on vacation to a country that doesn't have it, you won't be able to use Disney Plus.Disney Plus error code 13Disney Plus error code 13 is one of the easiest to fix. You will receive this message when you have reached the limit of devices that can be used with a single account. So if you have four devices connected to Disney Plus and you try to connect to a fifth, you'll need to disconnect from one of the others. Slightly peasy. Disney Plus error code 22Depending on who asks, error code 22 is either a good thing or a bad thing. The message itself is due to Kids mode blocking anything that may be considered inappropriate for younger viewers. If your children complain, you can ignore them. If it's just you, you'll need to go into settings and disable the Kids Mode.Disney Plus 24 error codeHow is the wi-fi connection? Error code 24 usually occurs only after the signal and/or broadband speed decreases. Try giving the router a restart and contact your information provider if other problems persist. The Disney Plus 29 Error Code We're sorry, but we can't play the video you requested. Try again. If the problem persists, visit the Disney+ Help Center [Error Code 29]This is to deal with possible internet or server problems. Check the connection speed is up to zero first before checking online, if Disney Plus has suddenly gone offline, though that's rare. The Disney Plus 31Error code 31 error code will tell you that the app is having trouble verifying its location. Make sure you're not using a VPN, and also make sure you're connected to a private network. Make sure you also turn on location settings if you're using an iPhone or iPad.Disney Plus 39 error code: This means that the video you're trying to watch can't be watched at this time. This could be a rights availability or another issue with Disney+. But it usually revolves around streaming Disney Plus through its Xbox One app. First, make sure you don't stream simultaneously through your PC, mobile, or any other devices while using the Xbox One app. If this still doesn't work - try changing the HDMI port on your TV to your Xbox. It's a minor change, but it could fix the error code 39.Disney Plus error code 41 Sorry, but we can't play the video you requested, it's a pretty confusing message, right? But that's it, in what error code 41 boils down to. Error 41 occurs when the system appears to be overloaded due to a traffic spike. It will be worth keeping an eye on when big shows are dropping for this - if everyone tries to watch one show at once, stress levels could get too much and you could see this error. Think about as a game launch day and servers have gone kaput - patience, more than anything, is required. The Disney Plus 42 Error CodePlease check that you are still connected to the internet and try again (Error Code 42) is what you will see when you are experiencing one of the most common Disney Plus error codes. If restarting the router/trying a wired connection to your device doesn't work, then you'll need to go directly to the Disney Plus Help Team (see the different ways to contact them above), as this is one of the few Disney Plus error codes without a constant fix. The Disney Plus 43error codeYou tend to see error code 43 on Disney Plus when you try to watch a movie or series that was on the tracking list and has since been removed. Sometimes the app doesn't update tracking lists after your content expires, so don't worry about it. Disney Plus error code 73Another new that is emerged. Disney Plus error code 73 supposedly has something to do with the IP address. Disney suggests not using a VPN if you use one. If you're not, make sure your location settings are turned on through the Settings page on your device. The Disney Plus 76Error Code 76 simply says, We are currently experiencing slow Internet connection speeds. The Disney Plus 76 error code is similar to 41. In that it is related to the amount of traffic and overload of the potential server. Basic fixes can sometimes work best: uninstall the app and reinstall; disconnect and return and restart the router. However, it's worth, again, just contacting Disney or waiting a little more for the service to sort itself. There's not much you can do on your part. Disney Plus error code 83Various messages and Twitter threads have drawn attention to error code 83. It appears to come from using Disney Plus on your mobile phone or from using mobile data, it would be a hotspot or data plan, or Roku devices. Connect to your home wi-fi and try another compatible device to see if it works better. Error 83, though, is by far the most widespread and irritating. There is no known fix as to write, so the best course of action is to contact DisneyDisney Plus error code 86 Sorry; this account has been blocked sounds pretty scary. Fortunately, you can fix it easily. This Disney Plus error code prompts you to go directly to Customer Service. This is because your account has been blocked - it may have been hacked, but hopefully not - and you will need to reactivate it. If you haven't already done so, now may be a good time to also change your Disney Plus password. Just in case. No error codeEi, this is useless. If you receive a message No error code, try restarting the application until A) either get a more useful error code number or B), it disappears by itself. Again, try to sign in and out. While you're here, why not check out the best movies on Disney Plus and the best shows on Disney Plus. Plus.
